

Money Nobody Taught You

Story-based money skills for teens, by Paul Blankenburg. Try it free with one class, and see the results for yourself.

Free one-class trial. First classroom free with an access code from Paul (request it at <https://mntyedu.com/free-code>). After that, the whole-school license covers every classroom. No card for the trial. No auto-renew unless you choose it.

What this is

- What: a 15-book illustrated chapter series for teens, one real money rule per book. All 15 books are ready now (Teen Edition). Free previews: the first two chapters of every book.
- Who it's for: teen readers. The Teen Edition stars a crew of teenagers and their uncle at a Texas repair shop.
- What the class does: the teacher reads aloud about 10 minutes a day (from the teacher guide); students use a printable workbook.
- How results are measured: the same 10-question quiz before Book 1 and after Book 5, plus a one-page Principal Report.
- Cost: Every school's first classroom is free with an access code from Paul. A school license is $2,499 a year for the whole school ($1,499 a year for the first 25 founding schools). Districts with 3 or more schools: $1,999 per school, or 20% off list. No auto-renew unless you choose it. Already received a quote from us? Your quoted price stands.

Why it's safe to try

- Free for one class, with an access code from Paul. Nothing to sign or pay, no card, nothing renews. Stop anytime.
- Teacher and principal toolkits are free at mntyedu.vercel.app/toolkits. Student books and workbooks come with a school license (access code).
- Your data stays with your school. The Class Scorer is an offline spreadsheet that sends nothing anywhere.
- Age-appropriate: no profanity and no violence in Books 1–5. No politics, no real politicians.
- Read it first: Book 1 sample chapter and the parent letter are on the download page, so you, the teacher and parents can preview everything.

What to look forward to: in a few weeks, you'll have a one-page before-and-after report from your own class. Measure the gain yourself.

Why it fits a class

- Action, humor and pictures, with short chapters that end on cliffhangers
- Mechanics scenes (engines, pumps, trucks) explain the money ideas
- Kids win by being smart, including kids who struggle
- Teaches how to think, not what to think: check the evidence, ask who benefits, compare options

How it runs

- Read aloud about 10 minutes a day; most chapters fit one session
- Teacher guide: stopping points, talk questions, “guess the trick” moments
- Student workbook: “Spot it” (a game, not homework) and “Try it” pages
- Quiz pages at the front and back of the workbook. Ungraded: just a before-and-after check

Measure the gain in your own class

- Students take “What Do You Already Know?” before Book 1, and “What Do You Know Now?” after Book 5. Same 10 questions.
- The teacher marks right/wrong in the Class Scorer (Excel or Google Sheets). The Principal Report tab fills in by itself: average before, average after, gain, how many students improved, and a chart by topic.

Target Outcomes

Goals we're working toward, not guaranteed results.

Outcome	Indicator	How it's measured
Financial Knowledge Gain	Pre/post quiz score growth	Class Scorer

Family Engagement	Students discuss money at home. Money lessons that go home reach further than the classroom can.	Optional parent feedback
Financial Confidence	Self-reported confidence with money	Optional survey
Real-World Application	Budget, savings or credit actions reported	Optional survey
Reading Engagement	Book completion and interest in the next book	Teacher observation
Student Participation	Discussion and workbook completion	Teacher observation
Equitable Access	Gains across reading levels and for students with IEPs	Class Scorer plus accommodations

Baseline set by the pre-quiz. Sharing any results is always the school's choice.
